

Deborah Jordy, Executive Director
Scientific & Cultural Facilities District (SCFD)

A native of Colorado, Deborah Jordy has played a prominent role on the arts and cultural scene for the past 30 years. In December 2016, Deborah joined the Scientific and Cultural Facilities District (SCFD). Prior she was the Executive Director of the Colorado Business Committee for the Arts (CBCA).

Deborah was Associate Curator of Modern and Contemporary Art at the Denver Art Museum and for the past 16 years has served as the Executive Director at the Arvada Center for the Arts and Humanities, the Cherokee Ranch and Castle Foundation and CBCA.

Deborah served on the boards of the Colorado Nonprofit Association and Arts for Colorado. For 8 years she served as a Commissioner for the City and County of Denver and co-chaired the Create Denver Advisory Council. She is on the Board of Directors of Americans for the Arts and serves as the Treasurer. Deborah is also a trustee of the Bonfils-Stanton Foundation, Denver, Colorado.

Deborah frequently gives presentations regarding the arts, culture and economic development to local, national and international audiences, including talks on behalf of the State Department. Deborah has been recognized by the El Pomar Foundation during her tenure at the Arvada Center and received the Denver Art Museum 2014 DAM Key award.